Panasonic to Reallocate Operating Resources of Mobile Phone Business

Osaka, Japan – Panasonic Corporation today announced that it will review the mobile phone business of Panasonic Mobile Communications Co., Ltd. (PMC) under AVC Networks Company (AVC Company), and strategically reallocate the ICT operating resources of PMC, such as its mobile communication technology, to new business areas and areas of growth within AVC Company.

The reallocation of resources is part of efforts in the midterm plan of AVC Company to strengthen the business in new areas and areas of growth, such as the B2B business, through the integration of AV and ICT, and is aimed at achieving new growth.

Specifically, the development of new products for the B2C smartphone market (carriers in Japan) from the second half of this fiscal year will be suspended, and the operating resources will be strategically reallocated mainly to the development of platform technology shared within AVC Company and to the development and promotion of new businesses, including the business for smartphones for the B2B market, an area where growth is expected.

Effective October 1, 2013, the mobile phone business of PMC will be restructured within AVC Company as follows:

- PMC will focus on the manufacturing and sale of feature phones for the B2C market and on customer support for products already in the market, including smartphones for the B2C market.
- Development of feature phones for the B2C market will be consigned from PMC to the Communication Products Business Division¹ of Panasonic System Networks Co., Ltd. (PSN) under AVC Company.
- The B2B smartphone business will be transferred from PMC to the Terminal Systems Business Unit² of PSN.

- more -
In line with the restructuring, in principle, employees will be reallocated within AVC Company, excluding those who will be engaged in the continued operations of PMC.

1. In charge of household communications equipment, such as telephones, facsimile machines, and door phones.
2. In charge of products including professional tablet devices, handy terminals, payment terminals and POS terminals.
